Episcopal Convention.

The 115th annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of Vermont was held at Woodstock last week, about 40 of the clergy and 80 lay delegates being present at the opening. Bishop Hall in his annual address discussed various subjects of importance including changes in the general canons, clerical changes, the building of a new church at Alburgh and extension of church work in and about Hardwick. He spoke of his recent critical illness and of having declined an invitation of Japanese authority to spend five months in that country next winter. Part of the address was devoted to a discussion of a more general observance of the Sabbath day. Bishop Hall announced that the Bishop Hopkins hall fund on hand and pledged amounted to $70,605.34. Rev. C. H. Wells of Woodstock was re-elected secretary of the convention. The members of the executive committee are: The Rev. W. F. Weeks of Brandon, G. Y. Bliss of Burlington, S. H. Watkins of St. Albans.

A meeting of the executive council of the Woman's Auxiliary was held on Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. A. D. Brown of Northfield, presiding. The convention adopted a resolution that as an expression of gratitude for the recovery of the bishop of the diocese each parish and mission will take an offering before next Easter, for the endowment fund of Bishop Hopkins Hall. The next annual convention will be held at Barre. It was voted to raise as usual $3,500 for missions in the diocese. The following were chosen members of the missionary committee: The Rev. Phillips Schuyler, the Rev. D. L. Sanford, the Rev. W. T. Forsythe, Messrs. John Woodin, Spencer Hays, and Charles E. Parker.

The Congregational church of Stowe has extended a call to the Rev. H. A. G. Abbe, of Fitchburg-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., to become its pastor.

The official board of the Methodist church of North Hero has decided to retain the services of Rev. G. L. Story for the ensuing year at least, or as long as it is practicable for him to remain. Mr. Story's home is at Essex Junction, but recently he has been engaged in Sunday school work in North Caledonia.

Dr. W. R. Blossom, a practicing physician of Rutland was arraigned last week on the charge of killing a deer out of season. He pleaded not guilty, but at the conclusion of the trial which occupied an entire day was found guilty and fined $100 and costs. He took an appeal to the county court and furnished bail in $200.

It is officially announced that an assessment of 100 per cent has been made up on the stockholders of the defunct Peoples National Bank of Swanton, record as at date of close of bank, payable early in July. The bank closed its doors August 19, 1904, and December 20, 1904, a dividend of 33 1/3 per cent was declared.

The sale of a tract of timber land, covering over 50 acres, has been effected by H. C. Carpenter of Marshfield to A. N. Blanchard of Montpelier. The consideration is $500.

Vermont Not Unjust.

The state of Vermont is able to dispose of its own criminals without influence or interference from Connecticut or New York. It has executed justice without vengeance in the past and there is not the slightest ground to suspect the justice or fairness of this decision (in the case of Mrs. Rogers)—[Brooklyn Eagle.]

Vermont Investments.

Editor Johnson Moralizes and Incidentally Recalls Some St. Johnsbury Ventures.

The Hardwick Gazette in its last issue preached an able sermon on local support for local industry. People who have money to invest will do well to read the article and reflect on the many truths therein. If Vermont is to attain any growth in the whole-souled support of Vermonters; outside capital is not likely to be invested in Vermont industries unless some of the people who are to benefit by the enterprise are willing to give it financial support.—[Wilmington Times.]

The above editorial paragraph was printed in less than ten days after the failure of a New York bank due largely to its investment of $600,000 or $700,000 in a Vermont enterprise. The best offer for this Vermont property which the receivers of the bank have received up to date, is $200,000, thus showing a loss of about 66 2/3 per cent on the investment.

These facts carry their own commentary on the contention of the Hardwick Gazette and Wilmington Times. The fact is that the investment of money is as delicate and dubious a thing in Vermont as it is anywhere. A safe investment is always a question. "The trouble doesn't lie in making money or saving it," said a Burlington man whose estate was the largest that ever passed through the probate office here; "the great trouble is in keeping it after one has made it or saved it." He was wont to add that he himself, though exercising the utmost care, had in his lifetime lost $400,000, interest being included, and he was thankful that the amount wasn't larger.

Another ground of complaint is that our brethren of the Vermont press do not discriminate between an investment and a speculation. "Invest your money in home enterprises," is the cry. As matter of fact, these home enterprises, unless they happen to be old and thoroughly established, are not investments at all but speculations, and, on the average, wild cat speculations, too. A few years ago, for instance, the good people of St. Johnsbury "invested their money in home enterprises." They set up a shoe factory, a bottling establishment, and several smaller enterprises, the total money investment being about $50,000. The result was, as might be expected, that every cent "invested" was lost. And many and many another such case might be cited. It is all right to help home enterprise to the extent of one's ability, but certainly it is not judicious to put it mildly, for the small capitalists who comprise practically all the capitalists that Vermont can boast of, to risk loss in speculation, whether at home or abroad.

A FINE COUNTRY HOME.

Something About Elmer A. Darling's New Residence at East Burke, now in Process of Construction.

Through the courtesy of Elmer A. Darling of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York, the CALEDONIAN is able to present to its readers this week a picture of the fine country home Contractor J. M. Poye of St. Johnsbury is building on Mr. Darling's farm at East Burke. The architect, Kent & Jardine of New York, have planned for an old colonial mansion and it will be a year at least before the house will be completed. It will be constructed of wood with granite foundations and painted yellow with white trimmings. The granite foundations are 33 inches high and a force of 20 men have now erected the framework to the second story. Broad piazzas will extend across the front and around two sides of the house, and as shown in the picture, tall pillars form a notable feature of the entrance. It will be a three-story house, the porte cochere connecting the main structure with the billiard room.

A feature of the first floor will be the large hall, 14 by 55 feet, while on this floor will also be the parlor, sitting room, dining room, library and breakfast room. The latter room will be finished in red birch paneling, while all the other rooms on this floor will be finished in mahogany. On the two upper floors are 23 sleeping rooms which will be finished in the native woods. The house will contain 11 fireplaces and be wired for electricity and piped for gas. It is expected that about 200,000 feet of lumber will be used in its construction. The granite is obtained from a quarry in Burke and most of the lumber will be sawed and dressed at Mr. Darling's mill on his East Burke farm. The contracts for heating, plumbing and roofing have been awarded to C. H. Goss & Co. of St. Johnsbury and everything in the eight bath rooms will be of the most modern sanitary style.

When completed Mr. Darling will have one of the finest residences of the state, and it is particularly gratifying to him that many friends in Caledonia county that he is coming back to his own state to live as much of the time as a busy city life will allow.

LAKE WINNEPESAUKEE

The Queen of New Hampshire's Lakes—Numerous Islands for Cottagers and Campers.

Lake Winnepesaukee, one of the most beautiful lakes in the country, is situated at an elevation of 472 feet above sea level. Its ideal location above the Pemigewasset and the Merrimack Valleys at the foot hills of the White Mountains has made it a very desirable summer resort. Weirs, Alton Bay, Wolfboro, Center Harbor and other choice spots are delightful summer havens. A large and palatial steamer, The Mount Washington, sails over the lake, covering a course of sixty miles and stopping at the principal ports. The surface of the lake is dotted with innumerable islands, which serve as charming summer grounds for cottagers and campers. The scenic surroundings of Lake Winnepesaukee are beautiful beyond description. In the distance the high peak of Mount Washington can be observed, while nearer, the summits of Belknap and Passaconaway are visible. No better region in New Hampshire can be selected for a summer vacation. Send six cents in stamps to the General Passenger Department, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston, for the beautiful colored map of Lake Winnepesaukee, showing the numerous islands, glens and coves. A two-cent stamp will bring you a delightful illustrated and interesting descriptive booklet, entitled "Lakes and Streams of New England," which gives a detailed description of New Hampshire's chosen lake.

MARY ROGERS' CASE.

A Third Reprise—Dec. 8 the Next Date—U. S. Supreme Court will pass upon the Case.

Mary Rogers has been reprieved for the third time, and now has a lease of life till Dec. 8 to allow the Supreme Court of the United States to pass upon the law points involved. The prisoner's counsel petitioned for her release on a writ of habeas corpus, but this was denied. Judge Wheeler criticised the procedure of the state courts with respect to Mary Rogers, but could not discover any legal reasons for setting her free. The denial of the petition was followed by an appeal, which sends the matter up to the highest court.

In giving his decision, on Thursday morning, Judge Wheeler said the effect of the governor's reprieve had been to keep the prisoner in solitary confinement not only during the three months specified by law, but for the entire time since then and also since the denial of the petition to the supreme court. This, he said, appeared in violation of the law and gave the respondent no opportunity to be heard. The purpose of the statute being to give the supreme court the right to determine how the respondent should be kept during her confinement until she was executed, and she already having served three months in solitary confinement without the court having made an order, Judge Wheeler was of the opinion she is now being kept in solitary confinement without due process of the law. He said, however, the matter was not sufficiently clear to him as a direct violation of the federal constitution and statutes to warrant his discharging the woman.
